CONDEMNS U.S. LEGION STAND ON IMMIGRATION

One of the first questions asked [redacted] was: "Will they go back to Hungary?"

The answer was, and still is, "Yes," the W. R. A. says.

The refugees were brought to the U. S. under a mutually agreement that they would return, and many of them are looking forward to a speedy end to the Nazis-Japan war, so they may return home.

The W. R. A. says it is probably true of the Hungarians, as it is of the Europeans, that they would want as much to eat as a combat soldier. The typical American diet had to be altered to provide dark, full-bodied bread, rather than white, and more milk was added.

A few of the 982 Europeans at the Fort Ontario emergency refugee shelter are being allowed to volunteer for apple picking during the farm-labor shortage, the War Relocation Authority said.

Farm Bureau and United States Employment Service representatives will select those to serve when other help cannot be obtained, a W. R. A. spokesman added. The previous policy has been to allow no outside work by the refugees.

The work will be in the vicinity of Oswego. The refugees will leave the shelter each morning and return each evening, and will receive pay equivalent to that normally paid for such labor, the W. R. A. explained, noting that the policy change was intended to avert a food spoilage.

ASKS "JEWISH" BRIGADE BE CALLED "ZIONIST"

Leonard J. Rosenwald, president of the American Council for Judaism, Philadelphia, Pa., that he had sent the following telegram to [redacted] in Ottawa and James Parmelee:

"Newspapers report the British Government decision to form a so-called Jewish brigade under a so-called Jewish flag. We heartily applaud this decision. We urge that our military and civil officials [redacted] to emphasize that any such brigade is composed of American citizens of Jewish faith and not of Jewish nationality. Zionists have been in America several years. The flag of Americans of Jewish faith is the Stars and Stripes."

Lyons Jews Begin Job Of Collecting Children Scattered In French Homes

Jews of Lyons, France, held their first legal open meeting since the Nazi occupation of France. The meeting was followed by a special service at the synagogue in celebration of their newly acquired freedom.

The meeting, attended by about 50 men and women, composing the Lyons United Jewish Defense Committee, discussed present Jewish problems as well as those of the near future. One of the speakers, a member of the Committee, told the audience that [redacted] had met for the first time since the occupation began.

The Council of the Jewish Party decided to establish four committees: First, to organize work including visits and relations; [redacted]

AT THE SERVICE-MEN'S CENTRE IN MONTREAL

Celebrating a birthday among friends is the right way to do it, but to celebrate it at one of the Servicemen's Centres of the Canadian Jewish Congress just adds the fine touch of perfection for a boy away from home. The fledgling sailor from Hamilton who rushed into the Montreal Centre with two buddies ended up by being a courtly birthday host with the help of the Centre. He made a wish and with one deep breath blew out twenty candles on his own surprise birthday cake. He had "Happy Birthday To You" sung to him twice, and a mate he'll never forget shouted out that this occasion called for a "royal case of the bumps". When a cheering chorus and an orchestra salute had counted out twenty bumps, he staggered up to announce that he wished he were only two years old, but he didn't care, really, because his last birthday had found him all alone, black-balling across Canada. This made up for it. This time it was really something!

Like other servicemen who [illegible] the shooting, the Sailor thought, and the fun that makes these Centres talked-about and famous wherever Canadian soldiers get together to talk things over.

World Jewry And The UNRRA Convention

By Samuel P. Cohen

World Jewry accomplished something new through the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration Convention recently held in Montreal. They succeeded in changing International Law so that co-religionists, if Axis nationals, may receive aid from UNRRA) and settled on one man as a common spokesman, Saul Hayes, of Montreal, executive-director of the Canadian Jewish Congress.

Mr. Hayes was chosen to represent before UNRRA the Agudath Israel, the American Jewish Committee, the American Jewish Conference, the Canadian Jewish Congress, and the World Jewish Congress, and had the agreement of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee. These organizations, along with others, came singly to present the Jewish cause; each published their own statements, each tried to sway UNRRA to hear their particular versions of the Jewish plea.

With the work of Mr. Hayes, and of the Canadian Jewish Congress, the different Jewish delegates were able to become united, to formulate one common set of demands, one petition conforming with their separate plans, and to pick a single spokesman, with the pleasant possibility of further, needed cooperation after this UNRRA conference.

This was brought about by the Congress, last through the chorus of conflict there would be a repetition of the despairing failure of the Evian Conference of 1938, and of every other time when these and similar organizations have tried to decide by themselves what is good for the Jews. The Evian Conference, convened by President Roosevelt, was planned to attain a program of refugee emigration and resettlement — a program which would have had to rely on the resources of private organizations in the several countries. The only worthwhile result of the Evian Conference was the final resolution adopted to establish the Intergovernmental Committee on Refugees as a permanent body, to take care of refugees until they are permanently settled and no longer homeless. Its responsibility is to the Jews who cannot or will not go back to their places of origin.

UNRRA, on the other hand, is organized to help United Nations nationals, for relief and rehabilitation in their ruined and wasted lands. Its work is to be paid for by the United Nations. UNRRA, an international organization, and governed, then, according to International Law, reasoned that a Jew is a citizen of his country, and should be treated as such. Therefore, no separate Jewish organization was recognized as a delegation, and not even as an observer. However, the United Nations Congress is a member. The Congress is preparing now, with UNRRA, choosing to send some Canadian Jews overseas as aides.

Mr. Hayes' work of speaking for the Jews is finished, as far as the UNRRA schedule of assistance goes. But because of him, the Jews of Europe are now assured of UNRRA's help, too, in their resettlement, a process which will be long and difficult. It is a real satisfaction for a unified Jewry to know that the Axis executioner, burning and burying the Jews for over a decade, will be paying with Reichsmarks to assist them before very long.

Refugees In Canada Joined By New Group

Earlier Arrivals Established 45 Industries, Payroll Nearly $7,000,000 Going Mostly To Canadians

At the end of their long trek from Nazi Germany to Poland, Hungary, Italy, Spain and Tangiers, 68 refugees arrived in Montreal on October 1 at the old Bonaventure station. There were babies with Spanish names and girls and boys among the newcomers who could speak five and six languages, all part of their "wandering university," the education forced upon them by years of wandering from central Europe to Italy, where they found only temporary shelter until their transfer to Spain and finally to the international zone of Tangiers could be arranged with bribery and as some put it "cooperation" with some democratic Spaniards.

The arrivals ranged in age from a blonde curly-haired baby of just one year to a woman of 78.

"We are just so happy to be here in the land of freedom, that most of us are willing to do anything to make our living", one former writer told when asked about their future plans.

From reliable sources, it was learned that this will be very likely one of the last groups, scheduled to come to Canada from Spain under the scheme allowing a limited number of refugees to enter this country. The total admitted so far was given by the same authority as 400, including those who arrived. All of them were under the special care of the Canadian National Committee on Refugees, represented by Mrs. Bertrand Clergue, and the United Jewish Refugee and War Relief Agencies, whose committee members turned out in large numbers to greet the 68 victims of Nazism, who had arrived in Philadelphia aboard the neutral Portuguese vessel Nyassa on Saturday. They came from Lisbon.

A group of three Catholic physicians have a typical story of persecution to tell. Dr. Joseph Kellner and his wife are Hungarian. He was forced by the discriminatory laws of his native land to proceed to Italy for his studies in medicine because he was said to be of Jewish origin. In September, 1938, Hitler prevailed on the Italians to adopt the Nuremberg race laws and Dr. Kellner and his wife were expelled from the country. Dr. Kellner was forced to go to Tangiers, the only spot on the map where entry was possible.

Maurice Hanewirth was an exporter in Germany when Hitler's race laws became intolerable in 1936. Because of his occupation he always had a foreign travel passport and on the first evening of the Jewish festival of freedom, the Passover, he left Germany without notifying even his nearest friends. He had entry permit into any country and for nearly three years he wandered over Poland, Czechoslovakia and even as far afield as South Africa in search of a haven.

Some of the occupations were listed as farmers, sailors, bakers, jewellers, engineers, diamond cutters, furri... ...is and teachers.

The present group have wandered about a good deal since they left their homes and some of the children were even born during the years of wandering.

Of the total number of 68 refugees who arrived in Canada only 8 families, comprising 21 members will stay in Montreal, the Canadian Jewish Congress announced. Upon their arrival in the city they were welcomed by members of the Red Cross and other committees, and taken in cars to the Jewish Peoples School where dinner had been prepared by the Jewish Immigrant Aid Society.

Probably the happiest of the arrivals there was Sol. Byalostock, a native of Poland, who saw his daughters for the first time in four and a half years. Byalostock had been living in Cologne, when, in 1938, the Nazis, according to the refugees, "looted the stores, burned synagogues, prominent members brutally and generally for their way of thinking."

A study just made by the Federal Department of Commerce says that they have established 45 [illegible] Dominion with a payroll of nearly $7,000,000 annually, employing [illegible] per cent of the men [illegible] Canadians. [illegible] number of country have [illegible] to join the army.

CANADA'S VETERANS

Their Post-War Opportunities

This is the first of a series of advertisements to inform the people of Canada of plans to re-establish men and women of the armed forces. To get the full details save and read every advertisement.

For complete information write for the booklet "Back to Civil Life."

The Future After Discharge —

A MESSAGE TO RELATIVES OF THOSE IN THE ARMED FORCES

When your boys and your girls come home, when they lay aside the uniform, when they go out into the world as normal peace-loving Canadians, what lies ahead? Can they pick up their lives as civilians, where they laid them down, months or long years ago? Are there plans to help them do the things they wanted to do before the war? Will they have security? Can they continue education, or receive needed training? Will they be assisted in home owning, or to establish their own business, and will they be enabled to pick up their family life once again?

These are questions which concern all those Canadians who have loved ones in the services. They are questions which this series of advertisements is designed to answer.

[illegible] OF THE [illegible]

Canada has been making plans for your boy's and your girl's return to civilian life since early in 1940. These plans are in effect and operating now. The aim is that every person who has served shall have opportunity. Thousands, already back in civilian life, have benefitted by training, by maintenance grants, by advice of departmental officials, and by the social security provisions. There is ample help for those men and women who want to help themselves.

[illegible] OR [illegible]

When your boys and girls are discharged from the services, they will be given:

1. A clothing allowance of $100.00 (if discharged after August 1, 1944).
2. Their pay to date of discharge.
3. One month's additional pay, if they have 183 days' continuous service, as a rehabilitation grant.
4. A railway warrant home or to the place of enlistment.

Dependents will receive:

1. Their normal dependents' allowance to date of discharge, with assigned pay.
2. An additional month's dependents' allowance, with assigned pay, if there has been 183 days' continuous service.

Your boy or girl will be allowed to retain certain items of uniform. They will be given a complete medical and dental examination and will be eligible for free needed treatment for a year after discharge. Those discharged not physically fit, in need of continuing treatment and unable to work, will have their pay and allowances of rank continued for at least a year if necessary and, if the disability is pensionable, for as long as curative treatment is beneficial. All are interviewed by Veterans' Welfare Officers and told of the re-establishment programme.

[illegible]

On discharge, those enlisted to serve outside Canada, or those who served in the Aleutian Islands, are eligible for a war service gratuity. It provides $7.50 for each thirty days' service in Canada and the Western Hemisphere and $15.00 for each thirty days' service overseas or in the Aleutian Islands. For those with overseas service or with service in the Aleutian Islands, there is an additional seven days' pay and allowances for each six months of such service. Payments will be made at the end of each month in the months following discharge. Complete details of the war service gratuity will be given in a later advertisement.

RE-ESTABLISHMENT CREDIT

In addition to the war service gratuity, there is a re-establishment credit of $7.50 for each thirty days' service in the Western Hemisphere and $15.00 for each thirty days' service overseas. This is for things such as the purchase or repair of a home, the buying of furniture, a business, or government life insurance, and for certain other purposes which will assist your boy or your girl in becoming re-established. This credit, which is reduced by grants given for training or education, or under the Veterans' Land Act, is primarily for those who do not wish assistance under these three plans.

RETURN TO FORMER JOBS

If your boy or girl held a civilian position before enlisting, and was not engaged to replace somebody already in the forces, and if the position still exists, and your boy or girl is capable of filling it, it is the employer's duty, under the law of Canada, to reinstate him or her in that position with seniority. Application for reinstatement must be made to the former employer within three months of discharge from the forces or from hospital.

Veterans' Welfare Officers are stationed in key centres throughout Canada. They are the friends of ex-Service men and women. It is their duty to advise all those who are concerned with their welfare. If there is anything about the re-establishment programme which you do not understand, consult your nearest Veterans' Welfare Officer.

[illegible] ARE [illegible]

[illegible] thing your boy or girl may want — a job to work and to hold a job. Canada's plans give opportunity to acquire needed skill either at university or in preparation for a business or industrial career. Fees are paid by the state, along with living allowances, while training or continuing education.

WHILE ILL OR UNEMPLOYED

There is protection against illness or unemployment by maintenance allowances which can be drawn against in the first eighteen months after discharge. There is also protection under the Unemployment Insurance Act for those who enter insured employment and remain in it fifteen weeks.

HOME OWNERS AND FARMERS

There is provision to assist city and other workers to have homes of their own, either on small acreages of land outside the high taxation area, or in town, under the National Housing Act. Full-time farmers can be given financial assistance in full-time farming, while commercial fishermen may secure financial help in getting their own homes, on small acreages of land, and in buying needed fishing equipment.

FREE TREATMENT

In the year following discharge, service men and women are eligible for free treatment, hospitalization and allowances for any condition, even if not the result of service. Pensioners are entitled to this for life for their pensioned disability.

THE POLICY OF PENSIONS

Canada's Pension Act is administered by an independent commission, all former members of the services. Any permanent disability suffered overseas, not a result of misconduct, is pensionable. Where service is in Canada only, the disability must be a result of service.

Simchas Torah

The Festival of "The Rejoicing of the Law" rounds out the cycle of holidays that we observe at this season. In Liberal Synagogues this Festival as in Palestine is combined with the Shemini Atzeres observance. On this day we conclude with the final verses of the Book of Deuteronomy in our Torah reading and immediately thereafter we commence anew with the recitation of the opening lines of the Book of Genesis.

What a unique custom it certainly is to end the Torah and begin anew yearly at the same time. Revolling the Torah Scroll annually must not be looked upon as a mechanical observance but as an urgency for all of us as we grow older in years to study anew the constitution of Israel.

New experiences which come each year can give us new and richer insight and appreciation for the old truths of the Torah. As we mature in life we must continue to have the mature appreciation for all spiritual values and hence a mature study of the old code. What a pity it is that so many among us rely in their knowledge of Judaism on the mere studies made of the faith of the father in cheder days or religious school days prior to the bar-mitzvah or confirmation, for a very weak appreciation for Israel's heritage is the result.

The Bible, which the Jew gave to the world, requires a life study. Its importance for mankind as a civilizing force is now more evident than ever. For when the Nazis attempted to make "Mein Kampf" the substitute for the Hebrew Scriptures it was but natural that world tragedy should be the result. The Bible which the Jew gave to the world preaches the unity of God and the unity of mankind, and upon these very ideas hinge the hope of civilization.

The new problems which may challenge mankind will never be solved unless first of all mankind accepts the basic truths of human brotherhood and universal justice preached by the Jewish Bible. The holy book needs to be studied anew by all peoples wishing to identify themselves with progress.

To the Jew joy is the keynote of true godliness. The "law" was not for him a burden but a genuine joy. The more scrupulous he was in observing the mitzvahs, the greater his joy in performing them. The object of the piety in which he was taught to hold the Torah. The Jew of a modern day, though not observing all the mitzvahs still believe that the duty, though not observing all the mitzvahs still believe that the moral law, the law of righteousness, we must cling to with all our might. We avow with our ancestors that primarily religion must be law, ethical law, moral law and righteous conduct, not mere pious ecstasy.

Let us observe Simchas Torah and find joy in making Torah our life study so that our lives may truly become ennobled. For the Torah "is a tree of life to them that hold fast to it."

Recognition Of Jews As Allv?

The British War Office announces that a Jewish brigade based on the Palestinian Units already in existence and to include certain categories of refugees will be formed. In the House of Commons Prime Minister Churchill said that the Jewish Brigade now being formed will take part in the occupation of Germany. This is good news indeed and should warm the hearts of all Jews.

The Jewish Agency for a long time has been pleading with the British Government that a Jewish Brigade be made part of the Allied fighting forces. In the armies of the United Nations over 1,500,000 Jews are fighting on all fronts. But now special recognition is given to Jews by the establishment of this brigade on a national basis and seems to indicate that Britain is returning to that historic road of 1917, when Jewish nationhood was given international recognition as a solution to world pacification.

The Jewish Agency hailing the Jewish Brigade announcement made this historic statement: "May it be given to the Jewish Brigade group to carry the Star of David in pride into the lands where it was used as a badge of shame and to bring to the Jewish survivors of horror a message of hope from Zion."

The Jewish people, the first and worst victim of Hitlerism, can not and must not be treated as the forgotten ally in his war of human liberation. Long before Britain so heroically stood alone, Israel in truth stood alone in the fight against the new barbarians who brought Europe back into the dark ages.

We hopefully look forward to more announcements from the British and Allied governments that will make clear for all time to come that Jewish Statehood in Palestine will be firmly established and that the Jewish Commonwealth will be given wholehearted support toward further growth and development.

scientists in Palestine, and summarizes the success of malaria has been likened to the work of the several Gorgas in Panama. He was a member of the malaria commission of the League of Nations.

In 1922 Dr. Kligler married Helen Friedman of New York, who is at present in Wisconsin, where their son, David A. Kligler is undergoing Army training.

Mrs. Hanna P. Epstein, national president of Hadassah, said:

"When Dr. Kligler went to Palestine, 90 per cent of the population was being attacked by malaria. It was to no small measure because of his quarter century of pioneering work in malaria control that Palestine was designated by the Allied military at the outbreak of the war in North Africa as the only territory in the Middle East free enough of the disease to permit us homes in our fighting men. In the last few years the incidence of malaria in Palestine was so small that it was not classifiable as a disease of epidemic character. All Allied soldiers were, therefore, permitted to go there freely on furlough.

"Dr. Kligler's death is a cruel loss to science the world over, but in Palestine his monument will stand forever written, not in stone but in the miraculous victories over disease which are attributable to his years of hard work, selfless devotion and passionate belief in the Jewish national home."

Times. Almost half the French Jews, for example, lived openly in their own homes, this writer was assured by a man who hastened to add: "That is not to say that we were not living in fear for our lives or that we escaped suffering — three-quarters of my own family is missing, gone God knows where."

There was no ghetto in Paris, he explained. The capital, like most great cities, had a predominantly Jewish quarter, where the Germans herded people with extreme cruelty, but they dared not herd all the Parisian Jews into a confine after the fashion of Warsaw.

Services were held in twelve synagogues throughout the occupation. Worshippers entered, quietly, skipped on a floor of David overhead to be one with the rest, and later left to vanish in the crowds on the boulevards. Only once did the Germans check on a congregation, and that was a year ago at a Rosh Hashonah service in the largest synagogue on the Rue de la Victoire. They sought two persons with false passports, although the authority of these passports probably had escaped Admiralty notice as well as their own.

"Sometimes when people criticize me,
I tell them without remorse
That for what it cost me to be free,
I might have had an enemy."

President Roosevelt's strong rebuke to Fascist Argentina for repudiating its promise to protect the hemisphere and for the development of the Nazi influence there points up the incidence of anti-Semitic propaganda, tolerated the past year by the Government, which has culminated in organized terror in the province of Entre Rios, where the Jews hold property, and in incitement to their murder in Buenos Aires. When crowds attacked Jewish stores and the populace was urged to tear out the beards of Jews these elements were being manipulated in an undertaking of grave international significance having nothing to do basically either with the common people or the Jews.

Last year the political organization of the German Embassy in Buenos Aires offered the Iron Cross to those who worked well for Hitler in South America, helping "all revolutionary anti-Allied and anti-Semitic elements." This offer actually appeared in a letter to a Montevideo newspaper. It indicated that the Germans were looking out and beyond to the most fertile soil for the seeds of a world Fascist conspiracy, knowing that they had lost the ground they had prepared around Berlin. Ten years ago Argentina had pro-Fascist groups, an oligarchy, which ruled by the army and by electoral fraud, and an affinity for Spain. Apparently, it makes an ideal spot for a key point in the new Axis, Berlin-to-Madrid-to-Buenos Aires, which will lie in wait at the North American doorstep until it can enter, or so the Nazis hope.

According to various liberal publications here and abroad, the Nazis own vast estates in Argentina under assumed names and have been providing for the evacuation of German machines to Spain for ultimate shipment to Argentina. It is no secret that Fritz Mandl, Austrian arms manufacturer, and an old hand at the game of arming Fascist revolutionary movements, told financiers in Argentina that their country could serve well as an anti-democratic base after the defeat of Germany.

Modern weapons are being manufactured there, conscription has been widened, and the necessary steps are being taken to strengthen Argentina sufficiently to support the Fascist conspiracy which must permeate all Latin America to be effective. By prolonging the war, which they know they have lost, the Nazis are availing themselves of more time in which to shift geographical position and go underground, to kill off men who would lead a German anti-Nazi movement, and to await the longed-for eventuality of changed governments abroad, which could bring changed policies toward Germany, and for just such a split among the Allies as the Farrell regime in Argentina is now revealed as at present working for.

The Jews in Argentina are suffering by the by. As usual, the real intention of their enemies is much more far-reaching. They made a handy scapegoat in February when the Ramirez regime was replaced by a more extreme military clique. While the country has moved toward a corporate state the common people were diverted by the permanent anti-democratic, anti-Semitic machine and democracy was being suppressed. Against this context the Jews were the worst scapegoat for successful agitation against Argentina's anti-war position in the establishment of a base suitable to Axis encampment. The expression of Jew-hatred has been the forerunner or accompaniment of openly voiced hostility toward Pan-Americans, democratic governments, Great Britain, and the United States.

The Jews live by democracy and die fast by hard and fixed totalitarian despotism. They are a symbol of what the Argentine dictatorship is squaring off to oppose, maybe to the grim death, according to the way events go. Anti-Semitism, advanced in the press and by speech, is all part of a policy to create fear of all strangers, not excluding the "colossus of the North". If Argentina listens attentively enough to the argument that it is badly threatened by the United States it can create a fear among its neighbors that will make them more amenable to the establishment of single military dictatorships easy to unite.

Underneath it all the trouble in Argentina is economic. In 1942 less than two thousand people owned land equal to the combined area of Belgium, Holland, Italy, and Denmark, according to the New Statesman. The people are ignorant and easily exploited. The country is behind in its development because keeping it an agrarian country dependent on foreign markets has served outside interests. Argentina should be industrialized with the help of Great Britain and the United States instead of hindered in its development. Backward, feudal, caught in the totalitarian vise, the country lends itself too well to the establishment of a menace to a freer world.

If Fascism can go underground there against world democracy, democracy can also defend itself there through the encouragement of the democratic underground. Where a handful of Jews can be of such scapegoat service to the entrenchment of an Axis post through the fostering of anti-Semitism, the common people are in dire need of liberation. The democracies may be forced to lift them up from motives of self-defense so that they can strive on the side of the more abundant life for all. As far as the Jews are concerned, they could help to build a modern Argentina which could use their enterprise to great advantage. But if the Axis jumps the ocean to find lodgment there, they will be at the mercy of the old familiar terrors which threaten the existence of all freedom.
